The above lots of land were bequeathed to the surviving male members of his immediate family, including his two sons-in-law Thomas Brigham and James Finlayson Taylor. The one exception to the male sex stipulation was to his daughter Christiana (wife of Jacob L. Morrison), for the benefit of their three children.

21 Wright Notebook. This book, with ruled pages, has a wooden cover front and back to which are attached paper over covers in an oiled design. It has a leather spine. The measurements are 7½ x 6". Page 1 is dated 1841. On the right of each page are three vertical red lines which suggests that the book was designed to be used for the inscribing pounds, shillings and pence (£ s d).

The first 34 pages have been used to record boarders' names followed mostly with the number 3, under the days of the month (in column form) suggesting meals taken daily by men in a shanty environment.
